EX LIBRIS

Ellen M^cComb Smith

Dear Mrs. Smith

I didn't know teachers could be so wonderful! I'm truly at a loss as to what to say because I'm so grateful to you for so many things. You have been more of an inspiration to me than anyone I've met all year. I will never forget you or your fine L.A. class. This is written hurriedly and not so beautifully as I'd really like it to be to express the way I feel about you. But I hope you will read between the lines and understand how much you've met to me. Your students are the luckiest ones in the world.

I wish for you happiness in this life and even more in the next.

God Bless you.

Mary Elaine Naylor

Dear Mrs. Smith,

If I ever started to write all the things I wanted to say to you, it would take all day. I'll just sum most of them up into one word - Thanks. Thanks for the study hall excuses, the life-savers, the insight, and the criticisms. I won't say good-bye to you because I know I'll be seeing you again sometime. I really have enjoyed this class and you this year.

Linda Ferguson

Dear Mrs Smith:

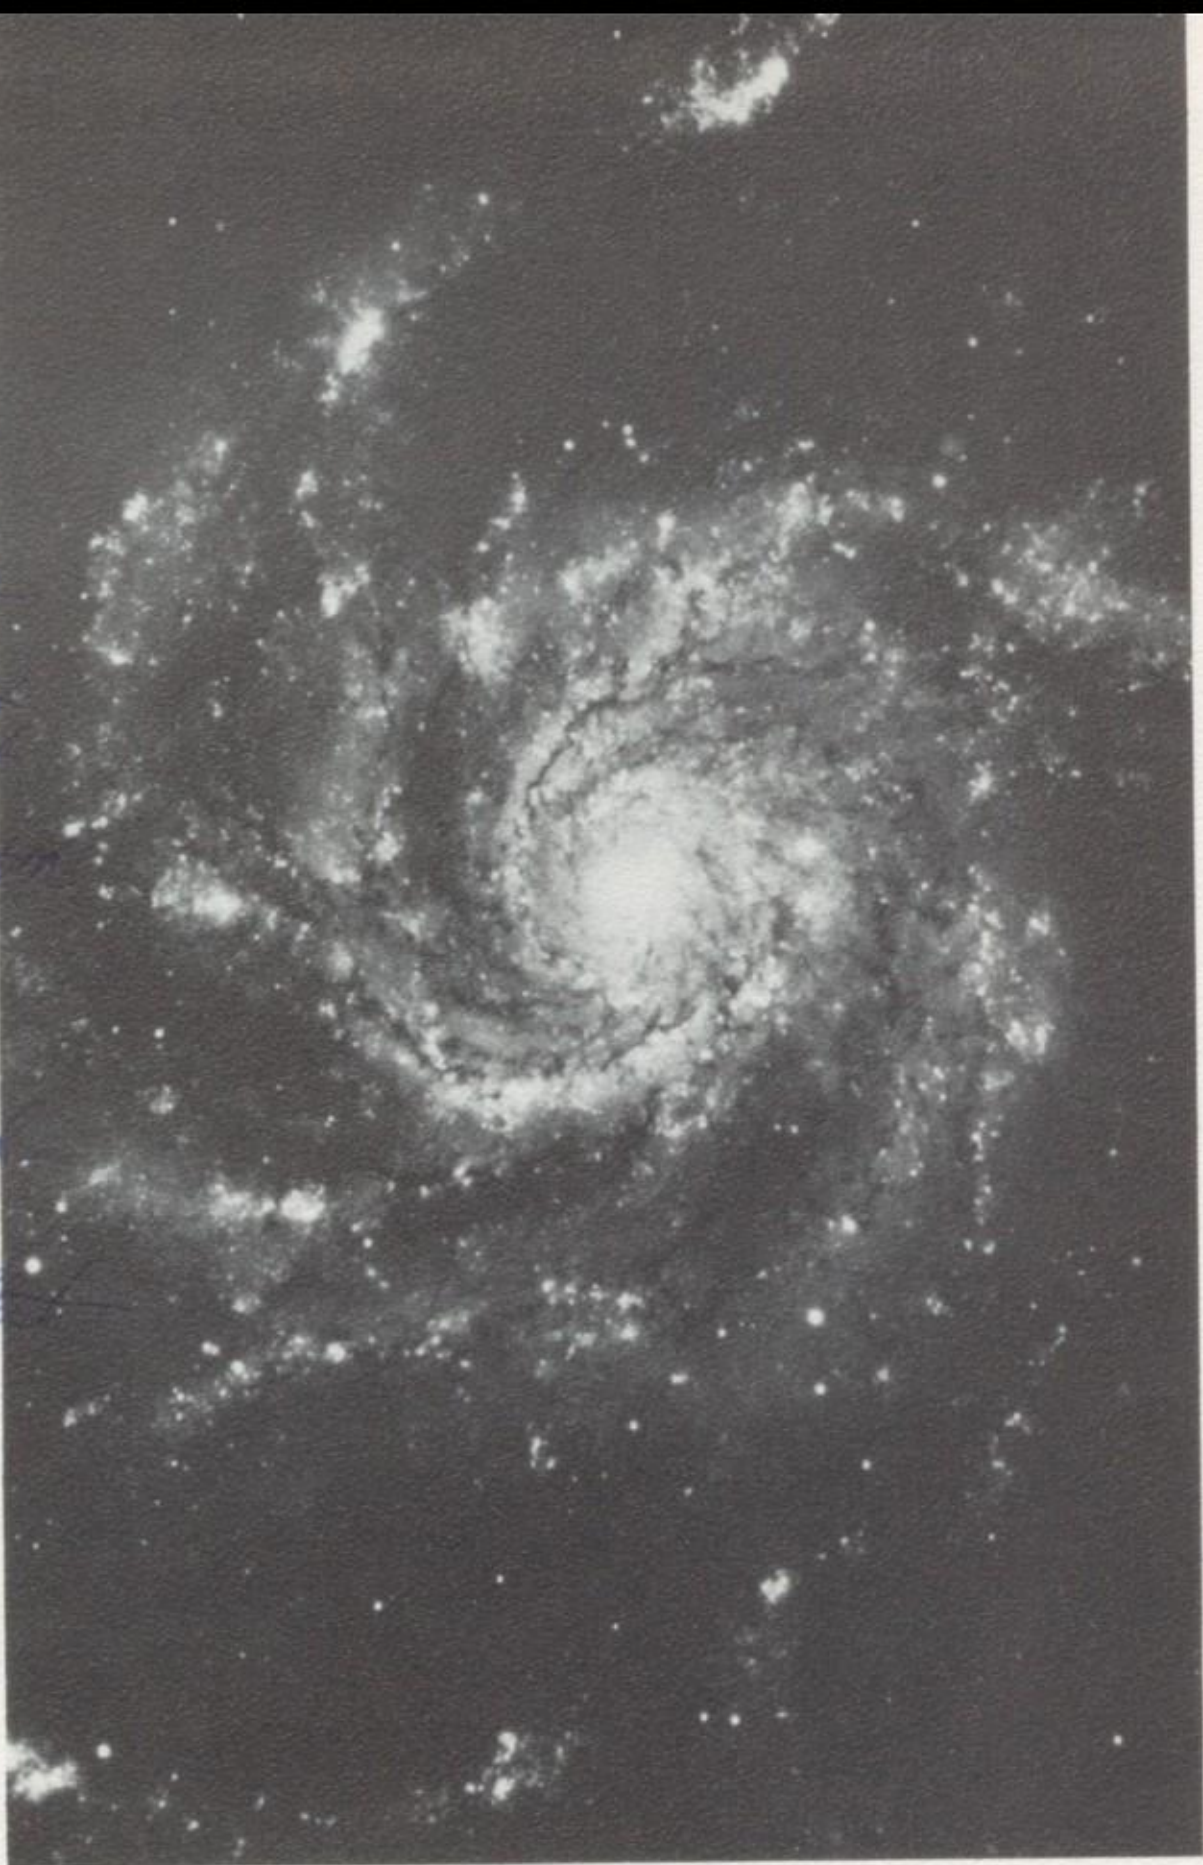

I want to thank you for the experiences you gave me in 9A last semester. This class was one of the most worthwhile classes I have ever had.

I have to admit at times I thought it rough, but I know it was worth it.

Thank you again

Love and Bless you.

Mrs. Smith,

Even though it may not be apparent, I really kind of enjoyed your class. I learned more in your class than in any other. You may have put a dent in my one big problem of procrastination. Hope I get you as a senior because it will be excellent college preparation.

Thank you for what you've done. Love always,
Ben.

Although I enjoyed your class and appreciate what I learned it would of been nice to have met on the slopes of Sun Valley in a more congenial atmosphere.

Mrs. Smith, please excuse my grammar and spelling, but I want to tell you that L.A. 12A has given me a true insight upon life, truly. The work was difficult but the end result "I guess" was worth it. It was a shame true that I didn't work harder but the competition was tough in other classes as well. I must say goodbye because I'm on another class's time. Good buy, peace, prosperity, goodwill to you. A former L.A. student expert (ha ha) - John Wallace

Mrs. Smith

When I saw my program last fall and saw, "L.A. 12 A - MRS. SMITH" I was worried.... I had heard... Oh well, I was wrong.

Your class was hard, but it was the most worthwhile class I have ever had.

Your interpretation of Hamlet was exceptional. It gave me an excellent background in Shakespeare and Elizabethan theater.

I appreciate everything you have done for me this year. But wishes for many more happy years of teaching.

Sincerely,

P.S. Hope there are no grammar, spelling, or punctuation errors.

Dear Mrs. Smith
Well, I tried. When you read this young one to say Pally to say Pally MECHANICS! But anyway I have a congenital spin de phet. That's really very bad. Your class is very interesting in most annals one writes - good luck a best wishes but one doesn't say that to you. You're wonderful person, I've never met anyone like you. A Roosevelt student first sees . . .

Following its theme, "Movin' On," Roosevelt's student government pushed ahead an active and varied program. The ASR was headed by the officers, the cabinet, the advisory council, and the student council. This year, the council provided two new amendments to the Constitution, one establishing the position of Speaker of the Council and the other adding the Speaker of the Council and the Inter-High Executive to the student cabinet.

ASR committees carried through projects initiated by the governing bodies. Special committees were established to work at Fircrest, find summer jobs for students, and to paint the activity center.

in finding a place for himself...

Participation in school affairs was promoted by ASR committees. Students who had given service for Roosevelt that would not otherwise have been rewarded were recognized by the Hall of Fame Committee. The committee interviewed and photographed many outstanding individuals, displaying this information in the Hall of Fame showcase.

Membership on the Finance, Thrift and Pass Sales Committees gave students an opportunity to share in the financial administration of the school. The Finance committee planned the budget for the year and appropriated money for specific items. Banking was conducted by the Thrift Committee, which also printed notices in the student bulletin and posted signs in the halls. The Pass Sales Committee made signs which publicized and encouraged the sale of passes to fellow students.

The Sports Boosters Committee conducted pep assemblies each week to keep the Roosevelt spirit "Movin' On." Throughout the year the halls were decorated with spirit-boosting signs made by the committee's members.

he looks for the friendship of others . . .

Service both to the school and the community was provided by various ASR committees. The Social Service Committee sponsored the UGN, Red Cross, March of Dimes, and canned food drives. This year's donations to UGN exceeded any amount ever given by Roosevelt students. Meanwhile, Spades furnished social activities for handicapped persons by arranging parties at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Valentine's Day. Members of this group also acted as aids for physical and occupational therapists.

To keep the students of RHS informed, the ASR

Bulletin Board Committee publicized school functions by maintaining informative and attractive bulletin boards while the Publicity Committee made posters for ASR and wrote articles for Inter-High Publicity concerning activities at Roosevelt.

Honesty and courtesy were among the qualities promoted by Ethical Conduct Committee. Members encouraged honesty on tests and homework by making speeches before sophomore language arts classes and by establishing a student-faculty committee which gave advice to any delinquent student.

a student participating in a committee . . .

Throughout the year, Roosevelt students worked to provide the school with a variety of assemblies, games, plays and other functions.

The Assembly Committee strove to plan purposeful and unusual assemblies by basing each one on a particular idea. The Girls' Usher Committee served as hostesses at school functions, and publicized current events. Ticket sales were supervised by the Ticket Force, which also managed the sale and use of the student passes. With the aid of an IBM system, they were able to check students' roll rooms, pass numbers and other information.

Backstage, the Stage Crew operated and arranged the necessary equipment and props. The Costume Committee kept the costume room in order and provided costumes for school productions. Performers were made up for the Senior Play, Revue, Drama Festival and assemblies by members of the Make-up Committee.

Clubs sponsored by the school gave Roosevelt students a chance to explore their fields of interest. The Future Teachers of America interested good students in the teaching profession while the Chess Club provided its members with an opportunity to learn and play chess. National and international study was encouraged by the debate team and the foreign language clubs. The Latin Club promoted fellowship among its members through a slave sale and a Roman banquet. The German Club stimulated enthusiasm for the German language and culture through a German band and folk-dancing. The Russian dancers had a part in the Revue, while the French Club maintained an active correspondence with Lycee St. Charles, a school in Marseilles. The Spanish Club's annual pinata party was held at Christmas.

Students increased their knowledge of France through participation in the Marseilles Affiliations Program and La Douce Vie. The Marseilles Affiliations Program made a determined effort to acquaint more of the student body with its foreign exchange. La Douce Vie, a collection of original poems and short stories written in French, was published by Roosevelt students.

Students with exceptional speaking abilities united in the Debate Club. Its thirty-eight member were, divided into teams, which participated in four tournaments in addition to inter-high competition.

Girls in the Attendance, Counseling, and Main Offices helped the staff by performing secretarial jobs. The Attendance Office helpers recorded tardies and telephoned absentees. In the Counseling Office, the girls made appointments for the counselors and students, did all the filing, and maintained a library of college bulletins for student use. The Main Office helpers did general office work, operating the switchboard and taking charge of the mailing.

Other groups also gave assistance to the faculty and student body. TR's collected tickets at school productions, and the Audio Visual Squad took care of the maintenance and distribution of films. Meanwhile, the College Conference Committee informed students about various universities by organizing conferences with representative speakers.

by working in a group with others . . .

Girls Club strove to promote friendliness and good feeling among all girls, giving each the opportunity to contribute her ideas and efforts to the organization. During the year the Girls' Club sponsored many programs and extra-curricular activities. These were based on the theme "Down the Trail Together."

The first event was the fall sign-up, when all girls were able to join the committees of their choice. The Little Conference was held soon afterwards, and following that was the Father-Daughter Banquet. The theme of this event was "Pardners"; it was highlighted by a square dance after dinner.

At Christmas time the Girls' Club helped sponsor the Holly-Berry Concert. Some of the girls publicized the event while others made refreshments and served as hostesses. A special program, the Careers Assembly, was presented for all girls. The speakers told of vocational opportunities for women in the Marines, the airline industry, and the field of medical technology.

Early spring brought the second semester committee sign-ups. Each new committee was assigned a task in producing the second Little Conference with the theme of "Pow Wow". The Girls' Club's year ended officially with the election and inauguration of new officers late in May.

through competition for leadership . . .

With the goal of giving its members a wider variety of interests, Boys' Club sponsored a number of activities. The first of these was the Big Brother program through which Junior and Senior boys aided the newly arrived Sophomores during the first weeks of the school year. The Club sponsored two Hot Rod shows — one in the fall and the other in the spring, and in February it presented a Military Assembly. The Boys' Club also offered half-time entertainment at basketball games. The highlight of the Club's programs was the Father-Son Desert which featured the first American to reach the summit of Mount Everest, Jim Whittaker as guest speaker.

Torch, Roosevelt's scholastic honorary, gave recognition to students with outstanding scholastic records. Lists of members were published each semester and Seniors who had maintained the necessary grade average for three years were presented their Senior Torch pins at an assembly held in the fall. At the same assembly, Torch members voted not to join the National Honor Society. In April, another assembly was held which provided entertainment. As another activity, a Torch committee visited junior highs to inform ninth-graders about Torch.

a person finds his usefulness, his place.

Golden Spurs and Roughriders were senior honorary service organizations. Members applied in the spring of their junior year and were accepted on the basis of scholarship, service, teacher recommendations, and Spur and Ruff recommendations. "Spruffs" worked jointly at the University Hospital, the Handicapped Center, the Library for the Blind, Neighborhood House, and Fircrest, in addition to serving the school.

The Spurs sponsored a new project each month. Through this program, they collected stuffed animals for Fircrest at Christmas, helped with Sophomore orientation and supported the MAP stock sales. In July, members served as guides at the Convention for the American Association of Workers for the Blind. The Spurs also spent one day at Garfield High School as guests of the Purple Paws, a comparable organization.

Spurs and Roughriders competed with each other for game attendance. Together they held parties and picnics and attended a church service.

The atmosphere of the commedia dell'arte, a style of theater popular in seventeenth and eighteenth century Europe, reappeared in this year's Senior Play. The play was The Servant of Two Masters, a slapstick comedy written by Carlo Goldoni in 1743. The costumes were specially made for the play while art students constructed an elaborate setting. Miss Norma Wills, adviser, and two students, Kathy O'Connor and Gael Anderson, directed the acting which was fashioned after that of the eighteenth century continental actors.

the striving to be original...

The 1964 Strenuous Life was an intensive exploration of the idea forming its theme. The development of this idea was in an opening photo essay, an application to the school, and a final resolution.

The staff devoted a class period each day to the annual, in addition to many hours spent in meetings during the summer and sessions after school. The annual was presented to the school in the ASR Inaugural Assembly on May 21.

Mark Taverniti leaps for a pass against the Seahawks.

City champs show sportsmanship . . .

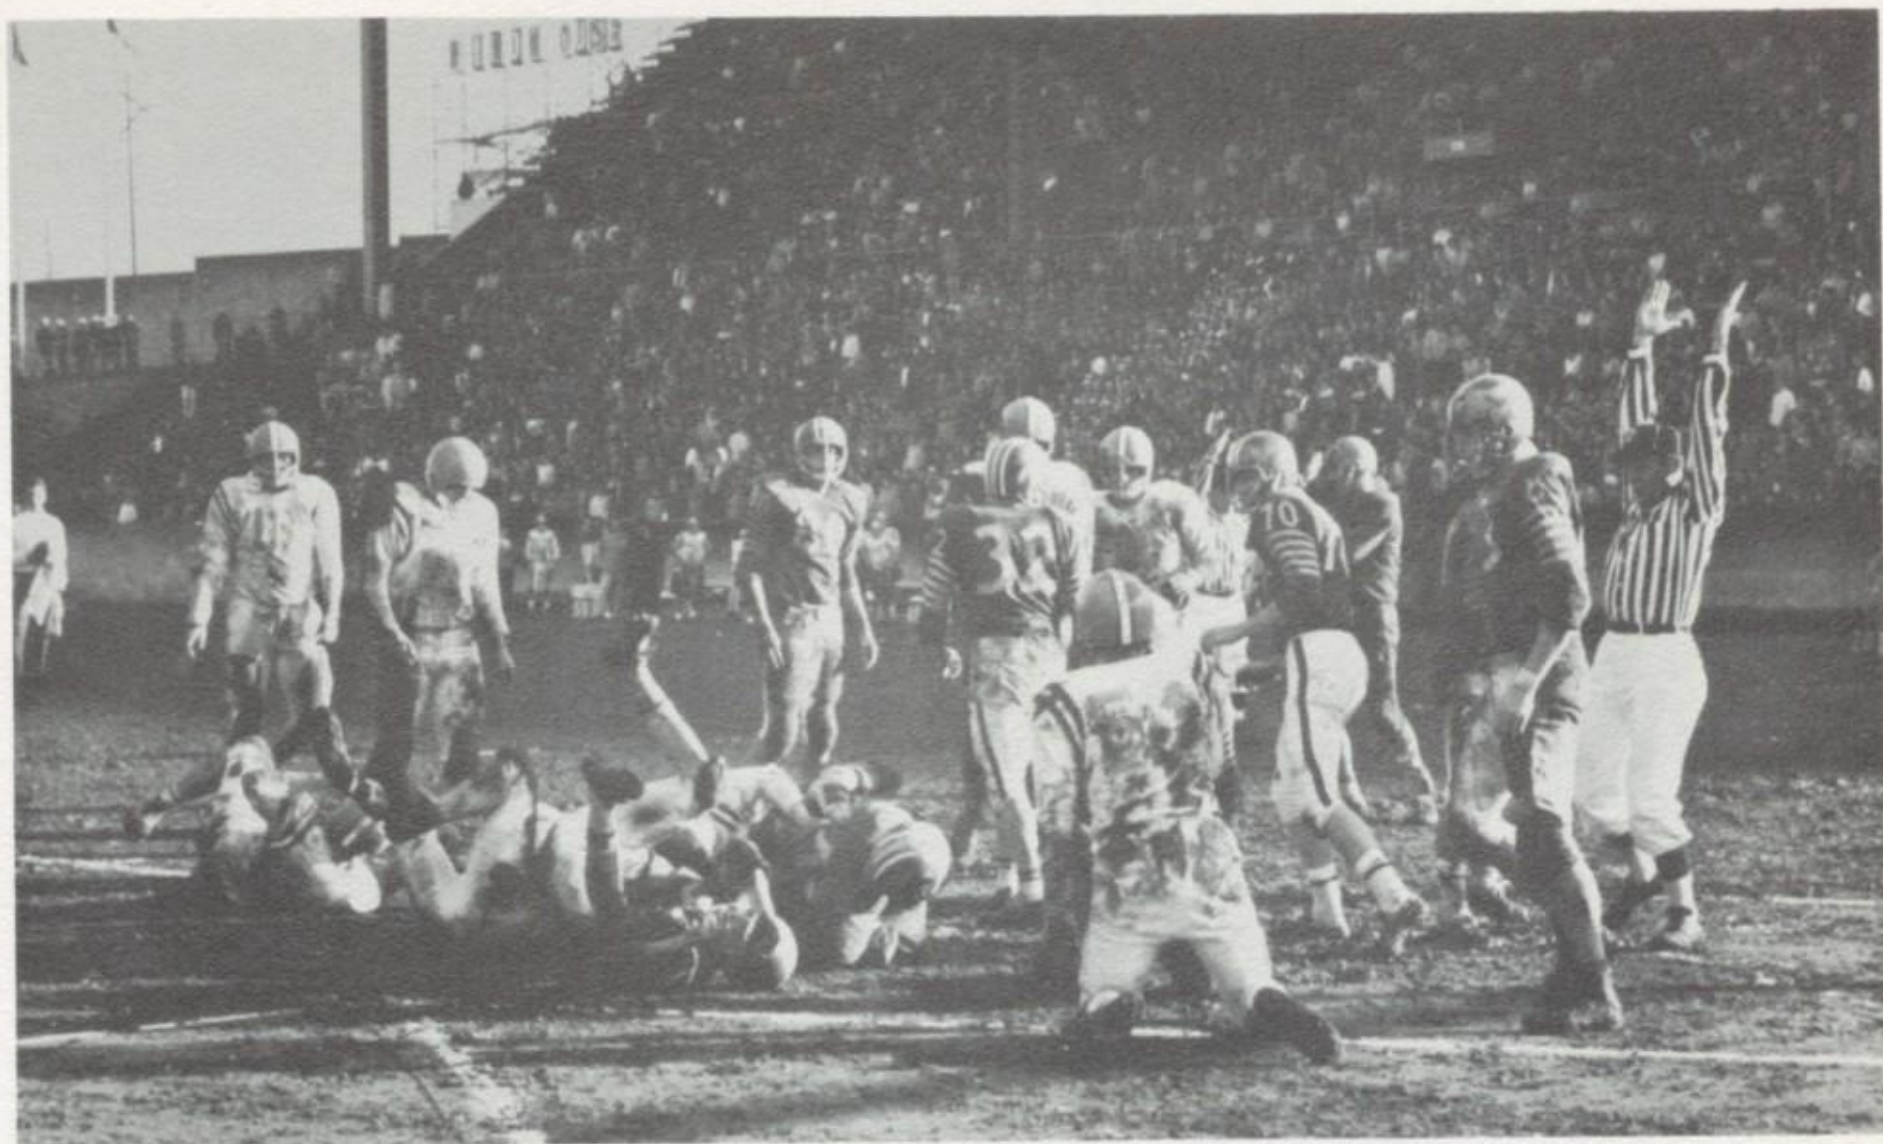

Under the leadership of new head coach Don Harney, the Roosevelt football team won eight games and tied one. They started their season with wins over Rainier Beach and Ingraham. A tie with Shoreline was the only mar on the season's record. In succeeding games, Roosevelt beat Nathan Hale, Edmonds, Mountlake Terrace, and Shorecrest. A muddy victory over Ballard gave the Teds the Northern Division Championship and a berth in the "Turkey Day" game. They met Sealth to decide the city championship.

The play-off game was a draw until late in the second quarter when the Teds drove fifty-seven yards for the first score of the game. The Teds dominated the second half, which started with a forty-four-yard kickoff return by Jack Heavner. From there the Teds ran and passed for four more touchdowns. The final touchdown, an eighty-seven-yard run by Mark Taverniti, was a perfect climax for the new champs' 33-0 victory over the Seahawks.

The Junior Varsity Team captured the North Division crown with a perfect season of five wins and no losses. This victory was heightened by the fact that Roosevelt's goal line was not crossed once in five games. The first four games were easily won by the second team. In the final game with Shorecrest, the J. V.'s, hampered by the rain and mud, could not make a score, and it appeared that a scoreless tie would result. However, a determined effort by Roosevelt in the last seconds of the game caught a Shorecrest runner in the end zone for a two-point safety and another victory.

The Sophomores also finished the season undefeated. In clinching the championship, they accomplished a clean sweep of the North Division titles.

Spurred on by the new Spirit Cup competition as well as by championship teams, Roosevelt's song and yell leaders promoted enthusiasm and sportsmanship at games. Beginning their work early, they practiced every day during the summer, often with song and yell leaders of past years. In October and December, they attended sportsmanship conferences at Ballard and Sealth with cheerleaders from other schools, where they discussed sportsmanship problems that occur during the football and basketball seasons. Hoping to set new traditions, the song leaders attended all the Cross Country meets, and together with the yell leaders visited Ingraham for a pep assembly. They also sold book covers and pep buttons to help earn money for the yell leaders' new sweaters and the song leaders' new basketball outfits. In all of their activities, they worked to build better spirit, sportsmanship, and friendship among schools.

In an effort to meet the interests of as many girls as possible, Roosevelt's Health Organization offered a wide variety of after-school sports. In addition to setting up a volleyball team which played in tournaments at Lincoln and Ingraham, RHO Club also offered archery, apparatus, badminton, basketball, track, and tennis. For the first year, a coeducational class in individual apparatus was organized. The officers of RHO Club sold pom-poms, attended an all-city conference, and kept a record of attendance points for participants interested in earning letters. All activities were aimed at cultivating each girl's individual abilities.

Another extra-curricular sport, skiing, was supported enthusiastically during winter months.

Weekends found several Roosevelt students serving on the American Ski Patrol, over 150 Teds receiving PTA instruction, and numerous others in private classes or skiing on their own.

Apparently undaunted by heavy snowfalls which enhanced the slopes but blocked pass roads, ski-happy Teddies flocked to the ski areas whenever possible.

rugged competition finds Teds...

The Roosevelt Teds, after a slow start, picked up speed midway through the basketball season. The first half of the regular season ended with the Teds in third place in the Northern Division.

Roosevelt cagers completed the second half of the season without a loss, finishing in second place in the Northern Division. Highlights of the second half of play were a one point victory over the Ballard Beavers and a resounding defeat of the previously unconquered Ingraham Rams.

The Teds then met West Seattle of the Southern Division to vie for third place in the city and a berth in the State Tournament. The team overpowered the Indians and went to State.

Under the new rules for the Tournament, the Roughriders played Cascade of Everett in the first round of the regional playoffs. With a good offense, the Teds passed Cascade in the second quarter and kept their lead to win the game.

The next game matched the Teds with Ingraham. A cold first quarter combined with a tight defense around Roosevelt's star forward, Steve Looney, led to Roosevelt's defeat. The

* Teds finished eighth in the State.

striving to do their best . . .

Combining ability with determination, the Junior Varsity rolled to a season record of twelve wins and two losses, making them the North Division champions. The only defeats of the year came in close contests with Ingraham and Ballard. The Junior Varsity, while providing reserve strength for the Varsity, raised hopes for a strong squad next year.

The Sophomore team, the tallest in Roosevelt history, completed the season with a perfect 14-0 record to capture the North Division Metro League title. Coached by Mr. Snowden, the Sophomores displayed strength and teamwork, indicating a promising future.

Intramural basketball was based on Indian League competition. In a departure from previous years, roll room participation was largely eliminated. This new intramural program was organized and directed by Mr. Thrappe.

Sports help develop the individual . . .

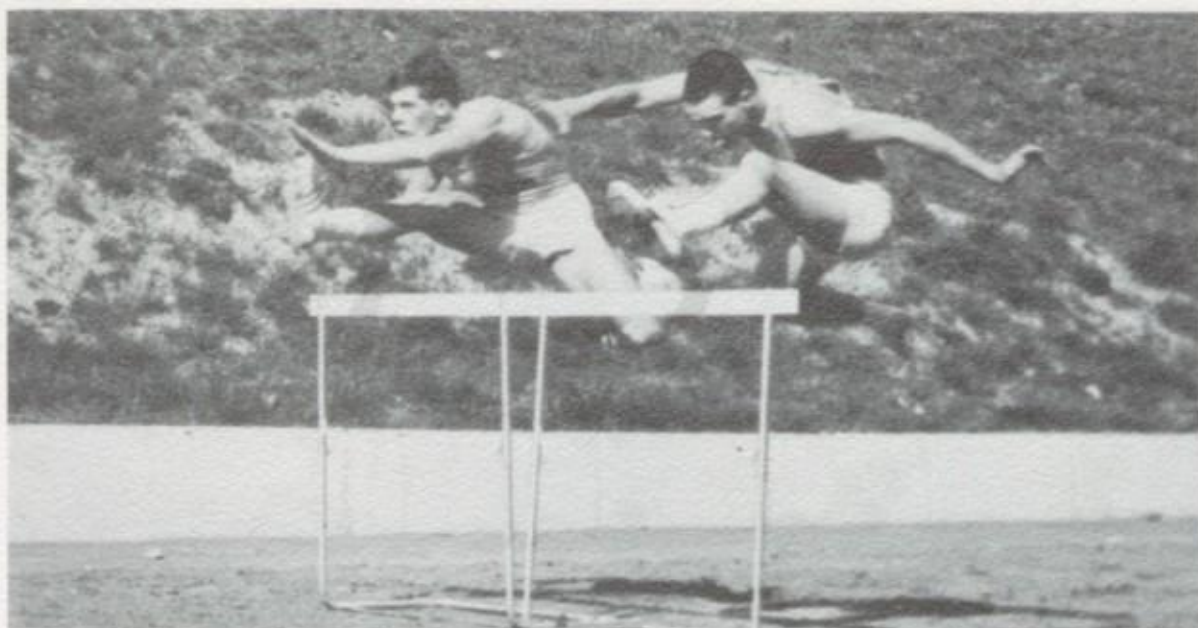

Coached by Mr. Fuller and Mr. Snowden, Teddy trackmen strove to set North Division, Metro, and State records. Daily turnouts beginning in March led to victories over Edmonds and Shoreline. Teds later proved their strength against Ballard and Hale, in a Relay Carnival, and in a four-way meet with Ballard, Shoreline, and Hale. North Division and Metro meets determined Roosevelt's representatives in the State meet May 22 and 23. Teds placed their hope in Ward Bushnell, Jack Heavner, Jeff Waesche, Jeff Fulton, and Mark Mochel for state recognition.

arousing the athlete's awareness...

Coached by Don Harney, the Roosevelt Varsity baseball team had a successful season. At the close of the first round, the Teds were in first place in the Northern Division, having defeated Shorecrest 1-0, Hale 16-1, Edmonds 14-4, Shoreline 7-2, Ingraham 2-1, and Terrace 10-4. Only Ballard was able to defeat the Teds in the first half of the season.

Second wins over Shorecrest 2-1 and Hale 7-0 gave indications of the Teds' finishing the season with equal strength. The close of the year left a legacy of several returning lettermen, adding to Junior Varsity ability for a strong new team.

"You'll get him next time," Coach McGee consoles John Nordstrand.

developing his personal characteristics...

The Junior Varsity baseball team proved itself successful from the beginning of the season. A record of four wins, one tie, and one loss to Ingraham was compiled by the J.V.'s in the first round. Coach Jack McGee looked forward to finishing the season with a superior record, confident that his team had the strength and experience to contend for the North Division second team championship.

Roosevelt's Cross Country squad, coached by Ben Brower, began turnouts as soon as school opened in the fall. Early losses to Garfield and Shoreline were balanced by wins over Ballard, Edmonds, Shorecrest, Terrace, and Hale. Subsequent losses to Ingraham and Shoreline placed the Teds third in the North and fifth in the city. While training for state honors, Teddy harriers held a five-hour marathon relay around Lake Washington. Twenty-four sprinters participated, each running two miles of the distance. The season officially closed with the all-State meet, in which the Teds finished eighth.

Roosevelt's ski team competed on a city-wide as well as a state-wide basis. The major competition was held at Stevens Pass on March 14. Teds, though hampered by injuries, placed second. Roosevelt also won second place behind Lakeside in the Beta Cup.

Intramural football and basketball found support in the Indian League, an organization of independently-formed teams. Games, in which one team challenged another, were held after school and on Sundays on the Roosevelt field.

giving significance to the individual.

The Roosevelt tennis team won all of its first five matches. Ted players defeated Edmonds 9-0, Terrace 9-0, Ballard 8-1, Shorecrest 9-0, and Ingraham 6-3 in an important match. These crucial contests completed, coach Mel Dranga felt confident that the Teds would place well in the city championships.

The golf squad, coached by John Rushing, found strong potential in its new players, as well as in its nine returning lettermen. In the first four joint matches at Jackson Golf Course, the Teds proved superior to all opponents. Already on the road to the Jackson Course championship, the golf squad at mid-season was hopefully anticipating the city finals and top honors.

80 Mrs. Smith

I almost made it out of high school without any challenges . . . and then came L.A. 12 — and I learned I was not wise, cultured, worldly student I thought. How could you do that to me?! Now, of course, I have to say that today I am the wise, learned, cultured, worldly student — — what would I have done without you, Mrs. Smith. Believe me, you are an absolute jewel of a teacher, whom I will never forget.

Love,
Mairreen
Wright

Hi!

I'll never forget, as long as I live your L.A. 12a class. I really believe I learned ~~so~~ much, especially about my fellow man and, myself. I want to wish you the best of luck you'll need it to put up with those upcoming seniors next year).

Best wishes,
Suzi Martin

Dear Mrs. Smith,

We've not been able to know each other very well this year, I hope to know you better next year. I hope to be able to be in one of your classes because I know you have a lot to give and you are a very inspirational teacher. Have a wonderful summer.

Good Luck Always

Margaret

Mrs. Smith -

Admittedly I A. 12a has been the hardest course I have ever had - but for all the knowledge I've gained I suppose it is worth it. Thank you very much for all your help and encouragement.

Love & sunshine,

Dear Mrs. Smith,
Your influence on my attitudes has been equally worthy as all my years at Roosevelt.
I go on to the University and all I remember you me. Every time I read a paper now I feel helped it. Bye now

Seniors experience mixed emotions . . .

The Class of '64 began its third year at Roosevelt with the announcement of its theme, "Big Wheels On the Move." Chosen to supplement the ASR theme of "On the Move," this theme represented the position of leadership and responsibility which the Seniors held in school affairs.

Financing the events of graduation was a challenge, but the Seniors met the expenses with a number of projects. About forty-five dollars were raised from the sale of candy at the Senior Play. At Christmas, the Class offered students snap-shots of themselves with "Santa Claus." RHS decals and plastic annual covers were also sold. As a service, the Class sponsored the sale of Roosevelt pins and graduation announcements. Seniors also participated in the planning of the Jr.-Sr. Dance and the Campus Day Dance.

Preparation for the final whirl of events began in November with a class decision on white graduation gowns for the girls. The graduation social calendar was led off by the traditional Senior Luncheon, followed, amidst a flurry of last-minute excitement, by the Senior Prom. The Prom was held in the Grand Ballroom of the Olympic Hotel. Commencement exercises, a confident step into the future, climaxed the Seniors' activities together.

Kay Wallace asks Randy Melquist's opinion before a class vote on the color of graduation gowns.

Music, soft lights, and formal attire highlighted the Senior Prom, held in the Grand Ballroom of the Olympic Hotel.

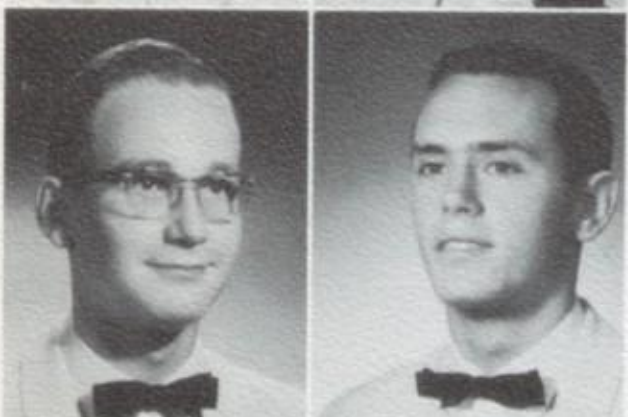

Through sunshine and showers, Seniors Kandi Gordon and Holly Barnes support the sale of Roosevelt decals.

Dian Marty and Lynda Hyllengren help raise money for graduation as they pose with Craig "Santa Claus" Dodel.

Enthusiasm best described the '64 goal of Roosevelt Juniors. Through their spirited participation, the Juniors supported and won many school activities. Victorious in Color Week, the Map Stock Sale, and the Canned Food Drive, they also had a higher percentage of student pass sales than the other classes.

Junior spirit began with football, when they won the attendance record at the Ingraham game. After printing signs for Homecoming Week, the class expressed their enthusiasm by giving a party for their Varsity Team. Meanwhile members of the class collaborated with Seniors to produce the combined class dance, "In the Midst of a Memory," presented at the Tennis Club on November 30.

January brought basketball and more dancing. Juniors again demonstrated their spirit as in the fall by attending games where they distributed rosters of their team players. The Junior Class supported an ASR dance in this same month. This event, "Dollar Daze," helped to build Junior Class funds.

In the last month came the election of ASR officers, Senior Committee Chairmen, and Senior Class officers. With this and the planning of Senior activities, the class of '65 enthusiastically looked forward to their last year at Roosevelt.

Representatives from Miss McNulty's roll room proudly display their plaque won for Color Week.

Mrs. MacLane
Adviser

Sophomores possess potential . . .

The Sophomore officers led their class in a round of activities in which they were aided by their advisers Mrs. MacLane, first semester, and Mr. Stenfors, second semester. One of their major projects was starting a grounds clean-up program; here Sophomore roll rooms took turns devoting a roll period to picking up papers around the school. An exchange with Bellevue, in December, gave Sophomore officers a chance to visit another high school for a day.

The Sophomore Class actively supported the varsity team by making signs and pin-on tags for pep assemblies. Rosters which they made were given out at the Queen Anne football game. The Sophomore team was not neglected either. Bulletin notices publicized Sophomore basketball games, and before Sophomore football games, cards were sent to opposing teams. The class gave a party for the team at the end of the football season to celebrate their winning the Northern Division Championship. The team enjoyed cupcakes and cookies while their coaches congratulated them on a wonderful season.

The Sophomore Class closed the year by presenting the PTA dance in April and looked ahead to the coming year with the election of new class officers.

Sheila Richardson, Eric Ranta, and Kathy Keyes go over last-minute plans for the Sophomore dance.

Sophomores wrap the books which they will send to Africa as one of their projects.

Dear Mrs. Smith,

When my sister had you she used to talk constantly about you. I had a terrible impression of how much work was required in here.

When I found out that I was going to have you, I was really frightened. I had visions of piles of homework being thrown at me.

After the first week I realized that it wasn't going to be hard but stimulating. My realization was completely fulfilled.

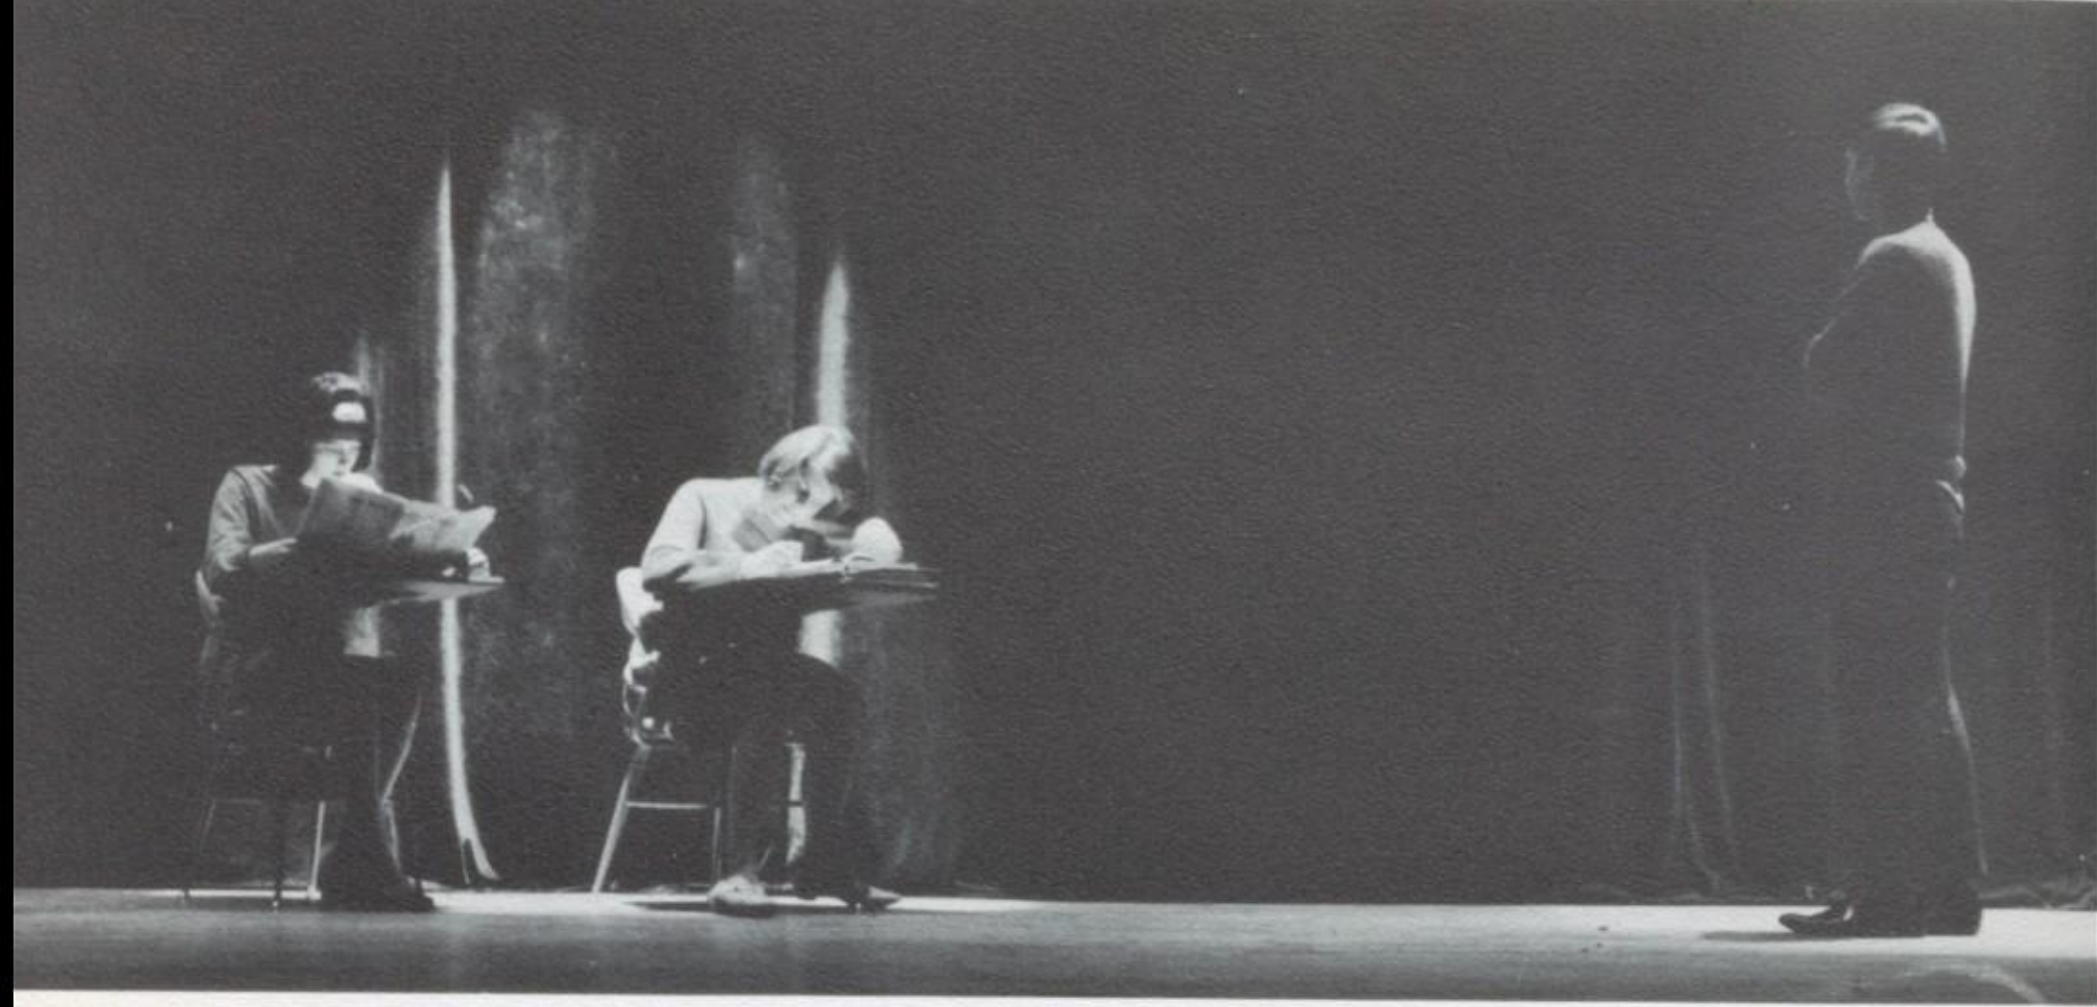

I hope you never die or ever fade away because everyone with a desire for a capacity for knowledge should be exposed to your vibrant style of teaching. I'd be back to see you in many more years to come.

Thank you for teaching me many things that are hard to express....

forming the specific from the abstract...

In order to cope with the perennial problem of giving individual attention to each student, the Language Arts Department set up an experimental reading portable. Students went to Portable 19 once a week for an hour of supervised reading. Teachers used this free period for correcting papers and holding conferences with students.

Honors classes were available for Sophomores and Seniors while Juniors could substitute Lab Writing I or Journalism for Language Arts 11A. Additional courses were offered to students who desired to go beyond the required subjects. Aspiring thespians signed up for Speech Arts and Drama I-IV and Seniors interested in literature took Senior Reading. Language arts teachers supervised the production of the Annual, News, and Revue.

Language Arts — Miss Norma Wills, Mrs. Lucile O'Connor, Mr. Ivard Strauss.

the opinion from the fact...

Roosevelt students saw world events more clearly because of developments in the Social Studies Department. Reference libraries were enlarged while many classes received new and better texts. Teachers had fewer students to instruct during the day, making it possible for them to spend more time working with individuals.

An experimental honors United States History class was conducted by Mr. Eggleston and Mr. Brink. When the class did not meet as a single unit for lectures in the auditorium, it was divided between the two teachers for separate sessions.

Conventional honors classes were available as well to Sophomores and Juniors. As before, the department offered optional courses to interested students. Seniors could, if they wished, complete their year of history with Far East, Economics, or Psychology.

definitions, theories demonstrations . . .

Matching the rapid advancement of their field, the Science and Mathematics Departments enriched their programs with entirely new courses and teaching techniques. In addition to conventional mathematics courses, Roosevelt students took such classes as Probabilities and Statistics. Algebra and geometry texts compiled by the School Mathematics Study Group provided a new approach to understanding the fundamentals of mathematics.

Two innovations appeared: a workshop or study library for math students where programmed material, film strips, and research books were available, and an electronic digital computer which was used during the spring semester.

Comparable developments appeared in the sciences. Botany, once offered as a separate subject, was included in the biology course. Many chemistry classes emphasized learning by experimentation rather than by lecture. Physics students used new study material prepared by the Physical Science Study Committee.

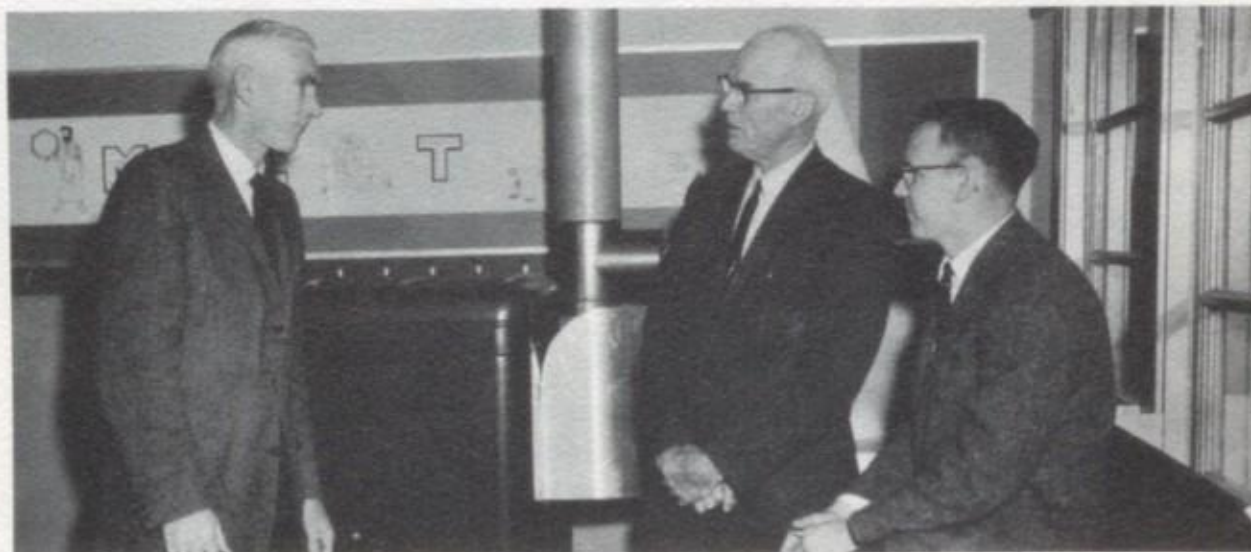

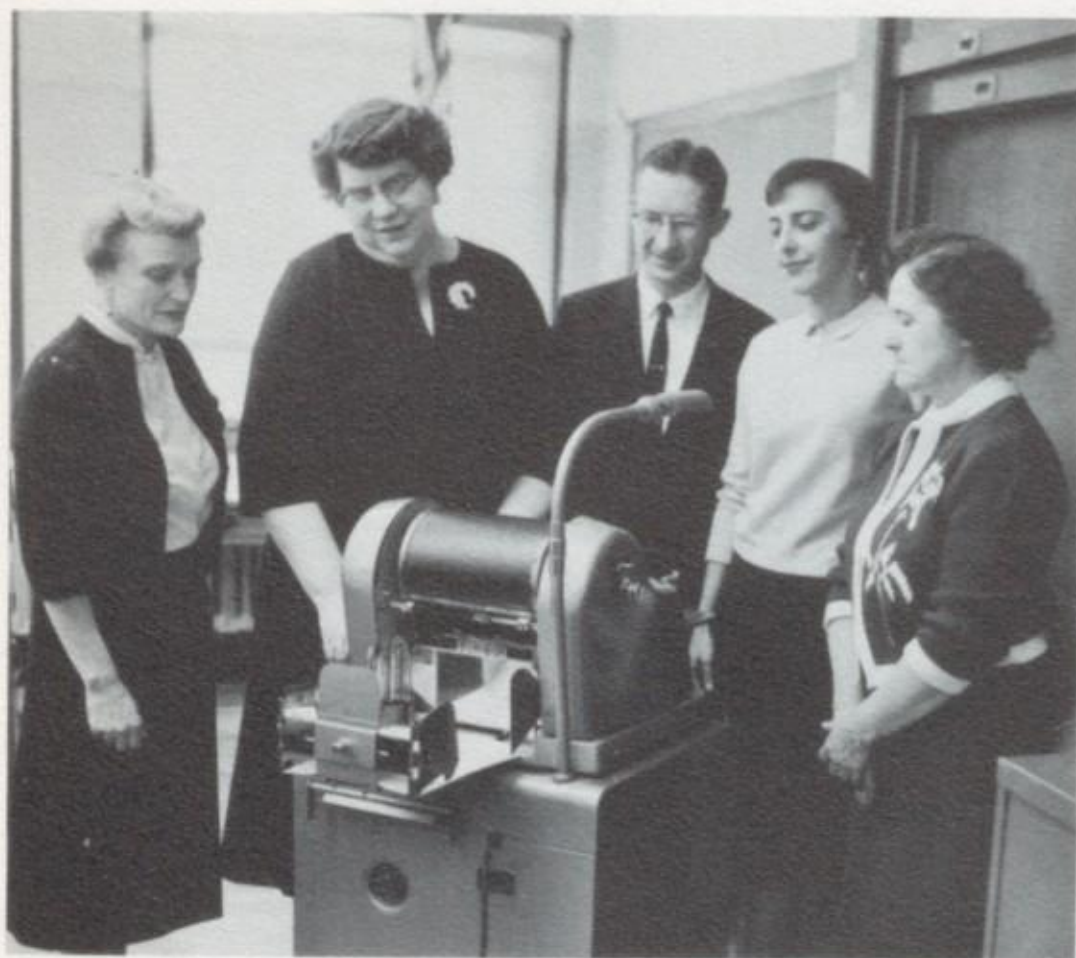

Mathematics — Mr. Philip Stucky (seated), department head; Miss Virginia Hardy, Mr. Dean Walter, Mr. James Erickson, Mrs. Cherie MacLane.

... by translating, and calculating ...

The aim of the Foreign Language Department was not only to teach students the rudiments of the language but to have them learn about a foreign culture. With this goal in mind, French teachers invited Patrice Castelaire, Roosevelt's exchange student, to tell their classes of life in Marseilles. Latin and German students saw slides while Russian enthusiasts enjoyed Mr. Obrastoff's tapes. Spanish and French teachers purchased foreign novels for the enlightenment of advanced language students. Mrs. Vyborny's French IX and X scholars, led by Steve Gaddis, produced La Douce Vie, a magazine of French prose and poetry.

"Business education has two goals — vocational training for office occupations and general education" stated Miss Lohren, head of the Business Education Department. Students who wished to make their careers in the business world worked for a Statement of Proficiency. After they had completed eight basic courses and specialized in clerical, retailing, bookkeeping, or secretarial work, these fledgling clerks received their recommendations. The majority of students, however, merely took elementary courses to learn useful skills.

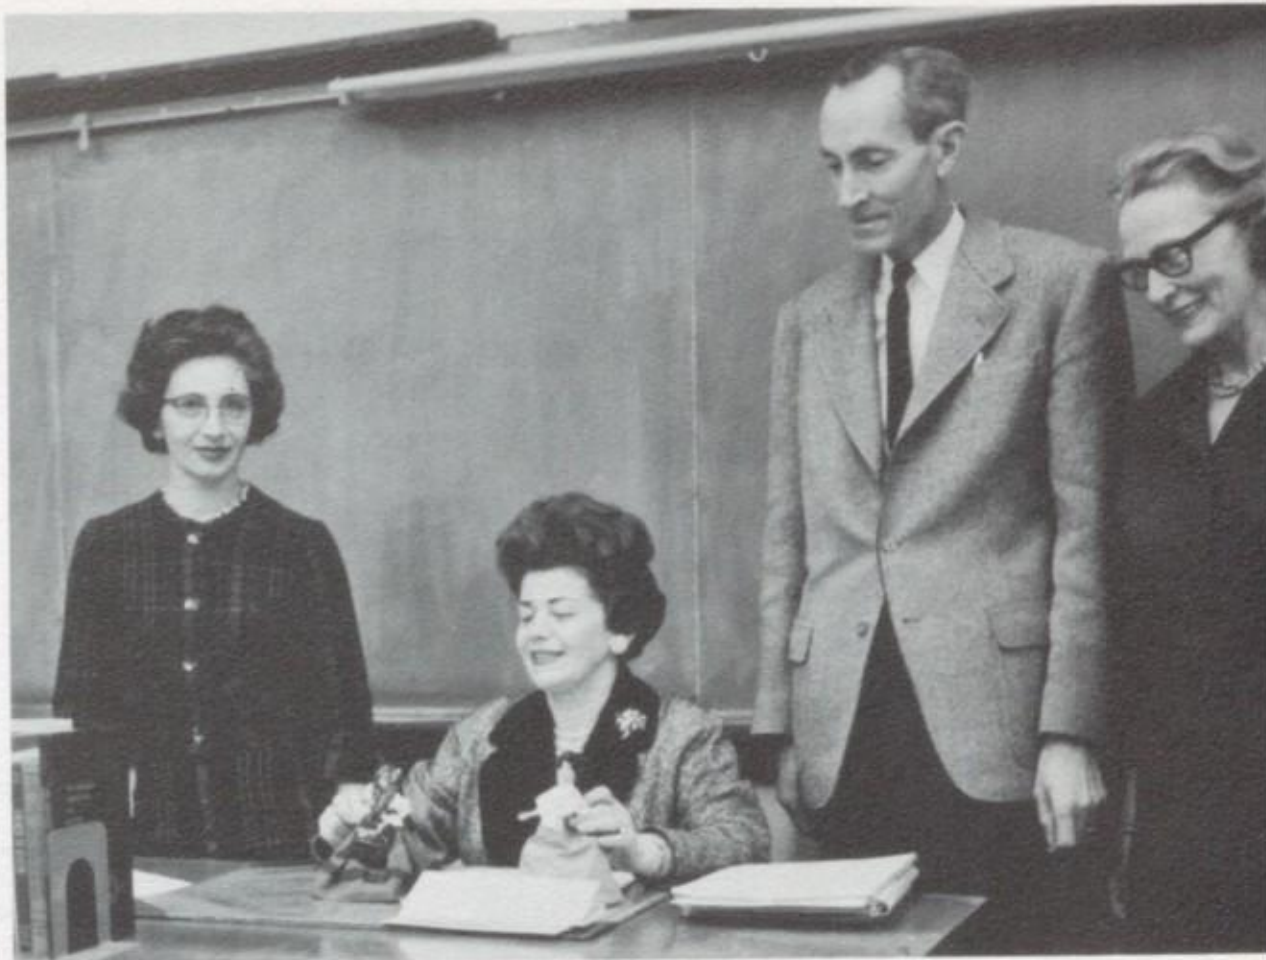

Karla Alford and Marlea Moore become acquainted with business machines in Office Practice I.

Music — Mr. Ronald Taylor, Mr. David Humphrey.

A wide choice of electives allowed Roosevelt students to explore their fields of interest while in school. The Art Department offered a variety of courses. Classes such as painting and drawing taught basic techniques while commercial art encouraged practical application of these skills. The Music Department climaxed hours of preparation with their presentation of Handel's Messiah at Christmas. During the year, both choral and orchestral classes were available. In addition, the department offered Music Survey. The Industrial Arts Department supplied a wide selection of subjects from gas engines to architectural drawing. Through the Home Economics Department, students learned the fundamentals of sewing and cooking as well as studying family relations. Meanwhile, study halls provided students from all classes with a suitable atmosphere for preparing their assignments.

Home Economics — Mrs. Celia Michel, Mrs. Lorna Erickson, Mrs. Kathryn Hedges.

Prior to graduation Roosevelt students were required to take Health Education, a course which emphasized understanding the human body. They studied sanitation, nutrition, elementary first aid, and interpersonal relationships. After this semester of academic learning, Teds attempted to apply their knowledge in the physical education classes. The main goal of the gym teachers was to make their students become more physically fit. The girls' P.E. classes offered a variety of activities, emphasizing those that would be useful after high school. Over in the new gym, the boys exerted themselves in calisthenics, rope skipping, obstacle courses, tumbling, track, volleyball, badminton, weight lifting and pingpong. Talented tumblers could take an advanced tumbling class at 7:40. These coed gymnasts entertained Teddies during the basketball games with Montlake Terrace and Nathan Hale.

finding meaning through knowledge...

A wise Greek once proclaimed in two words a profound precept for the man of his day — "Know thyself." Much later an Englishman suggested that man properly should study mankind. But today men seem more interested in racing to the moon or in splitting the atom than in study and healing the growing ills of man as represented by our crime, corruption, divorce, suicide, and mental and moral breakdowns.

No doubt we will always be fascinated by the study of our natural world and how to control it; but if in studying this we neglect to study how to control ourselves, our atomic world may end in holocaust.

Part of the answer, as I see it, lies in getting our studies into better balance so that we may really know ourselves. Therefore, along with our science and technology, I suggest that we re-emphasize the humanities and the arts, and that more of us study the rich disciplines of ethics, politics, economics, philosophy, and religion. In self-knowledge gained through broad studies I believe we can meet the challenges of our day and find the fulfillment we want from life.

Lucile F. Bullock

*This, then, is enough.
The search contains its own object.
In asking, participating, searching,
Man wills meaning.*

Mrs. Smith,

Without your wonderful ~~semester~~ of hard work, but it sure was an eye opener, and I hope I can ~~you~~ use some of the cultural experiences. Have fun.

Sincerely Bart M.

Mrs. Smith -

Your insight into my personality (though I've seldom been able to bring myself to ^{agree with} ~~believe~~ it) has helped very much to guide me through three years of Roosevelt - and perhaps guide me through much of my life. I feel sure that at times you must have felt that I disliked you - but seriously, there is no one I admire or respect more than yourself. My only regret, Mrs. Smith, is that I don't believe we ever really knew each other - I mean, communication was not there.

This, I think, was my biggest failure in High School, because I did want to know you - and you to know me - as we both really are. Again, the communication was lacking. I failed (over)

Mrs. Smith,

It has been an honor knowing you, in spite of all the trouble I have caused and objections raised. I like your ideas to an extent, but I will always remember what I have learned about English from you. I will see you again. For now - good luck and many happy years teaching.

Sary Bryn

Mrs. Smith,

Throughout my twelve years, I have never worked or sweated or learned as much as in your class.

Fred Blaud

to tell you what I tried to tell you even before you failed to understand. I do hope you know what I mean. Perhaps a realist and an idealist can never fully understand each other.

I doubt very much if I'll ever see you again after this year - but if I should - perhaps we can try once more to really understand each other -

Best always to you -

Tom Thompson

Mrs. Smith

In all sincerity, you have made an extremely deep impression upon me. I have learned a great deal more than I ever anticipated. I'll remember you always, and I'll come back to see you next year as I'll be going to the U. Please keep teaching as well as you have been, and you'll continue to be successful. Best & luck always. Love Delvester

Being in your Mr.
Language Arts class has taught me a great deal. I've learned to look for ideas and write research papers.
I heard from others that your class was hard but an excellent preparation. I can now pass that on to others. Thank you for all that you've taught me. There was a fresh new appeal to your class I really liked. See you next year. Lynn Kennedy

Mrs. Smith,

It has been fun in your class last year. I hope I have you again. Hope to see you this summer.

Best Wishes
Karen Mullen

Mrs. Smith,

I wish I had more time to tell you what a fine teacher you are. In the short time you have been my teacher, you have stimulated my mind to an extent I would have thought impossible in but one short semester. In the future, the writing
I do will be greatly influenced by L.A. 12-A. You have a real understanding of the problems and inner workings of the highschool senior. I can only say that I am grateful that I was lucky enough to have you as an instructor during this time of (John self-examination, revolution, and confusion. Keep on dishing out the hard work. Thank you very much. Field

Dear Mrs. Smith,

It has been a wonderful experience working with you this year in the S.A. department of the bookroom. I hope that we got it all straighten out.

Best of luck with everything in the future.

Dear Mrs. Smith,

It's been quite a year, hasn't it? With everyone's problems put together, 103 often resembled a melting pot.

Thank you for putting up with me - sometimes I know it was rough! And, I do hope to have you next year.

With the hope you'll have a pleasant summer,
Judy V.

Mrs. Smith,

you have done so much for me as a new student at Roosevelt. I knew there was someone I could turn to if I needed help or had a question. As a roll teacher and a person, you are "tops" and I have enjoyed your friendship. I hope it will be furthered next year. Best wishes always.

Dianne Marshall

Dear Mrs. Smith: When you said we were going to have to work, you weren't just whistling Dixie (tute!) Honestly, I've never worked so hard for so much in my life. I don't know if I could have taken it if it hadn't been for you smiling all the time. Keep it always.

Your friend + student

Mrs. Smith,

I can't even begin to thank you for this year at Roosevelt. You've really helped me to grow in understanding. Even through all the times I've dreaded third period - I've loved it too. I feel that I have really been lucky to have you for a teacher. I've come to a great realization because of the experience. I believe that I ~~know~~ realize my mistakes of the last year. From here, I can attempt to progress. Thank you for your help, understanding and guidance.

Best wishes forever,

Dear Mrs. Smith,

I think I have learned more in your class than any other. I'll never forget how to write and speak in class. I have learned to understand literature and appreciate. I only hope that I can have a teacher like you at Pullman High School.

I have dedicated an "original" Chinese poem to you. I have been trying to "Orientalize" this I.A. class so much.

今年花似去年好 去年人到今年老 始知人老不如花
可惜落花君莫扫 (I can write too well)

I see the flowers of this year as good as those of last:

But, oh, the maid of last year is aging fast.

The maid, unlike the blossom, her youth may not renew.

You failed, alas, to gather up the bloom ere it was past.

Sincerely,

George Wen, 1964 文 三 6
